

Do you love recycling?

The Waste Recycling Education Network (WREN) is your point of contact for recycling and more. We'd love to hear from you!

The Southern Metropolitan Regional Council is responsible for waste management and recycling in your area.

The Waste Recycling Education Network is an independent group made up of community volunteers who raise public awareness about recycling.

What do we do?

The WREN meets regularly between February and November each year. WREN members also take part in Regional Council committee meetings and workshops.

WREN members take part in community events always willing to listen to residents' questions and comments concerning waste, recycling and sustainability issues in the region.

WREN is keen to hear from residents within the region about their comments on recycling.

Who are the WREN?

The Southern Metropolitan Regional Council (SMRC) Waste Recycling Education Network is an independent group made up of community volunteers (residents) from the SMRC member councils.

Why are we here?

The WREN is a valued advisor to the SMRC providing community feedback on waste management, recycling, and sustainability issues in Perth's southern suburbs.

The over-arching aims of the SMRC Waste Recycling Education Network are to:

- Increase community understanding of the importance of recycling and the operations and programs of the SMRC and Regional Resource Recovery Centre (RRRC).
- Gather community feedback and suggestions to assist the SMRC with its operations and decision making.
- Help the SMRC to respond more effectively to issues and concerns arising in the community.
